Knowland, Nixon Maneuver Rights Bill in Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House expressed hope today for action at this session of Congress on the civil rights bill which was forced onto the Senate calendar last night through a parliamentary maneuver.

Asked about White House reaction to the move, James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, smiled and said:

"Well, that's our bill."

Then Hagerty added, "We sincerely hope there will be action on the bill in this session of the Congress."

Earlier, Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) said the maneuver had "enhanced" the outlook for civil rights legislation. But he stopped short of predicting passage at this session.

Knowland, Senate GOP leader, engineered a victory over Southern foes of the House-passed bill last night, but it was only a preliminary skirmish in what promises to be a prolonged battle.

By a 45-39 roll call vote, the Senate put the measure on its legislative calendar without referring to the Judiciary Committee, where a similar civil rights bill has been bottled up for months.

Thirty-four Republicans and 11 Democrats voted to put the bill on the calendar and keep it out of the hands of the Judiciary Committee, which is headed by Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), an avowed opponent of the measure.

Thirty-four Democrats, including Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, and five Republicans voted in favor of sending the bill to the Judiciary Committee.

Knowland, jubilant over the outcome, said "it cuts out one prospective filibuster" against the bill, a key part of the legislative program urged by President Eisenhower. The bill is aimed generally at protecting voting and other civil rights.

Had the bill gone to committee, a motion to take it away from the committee and put it on the Senate calendar would have been subject to a filibuster by Southern opponents.

As it is, however, two prospective filibusters still lie in the path of the bill — one on a motion to take it up for debate and another on its passage.

To break a filibuster takes the votes of 60 senators, or two-thirds of the entire membership. Past attempts to muster the necessary votes have met with defeat.

Court Studies Issues in the Girard Case

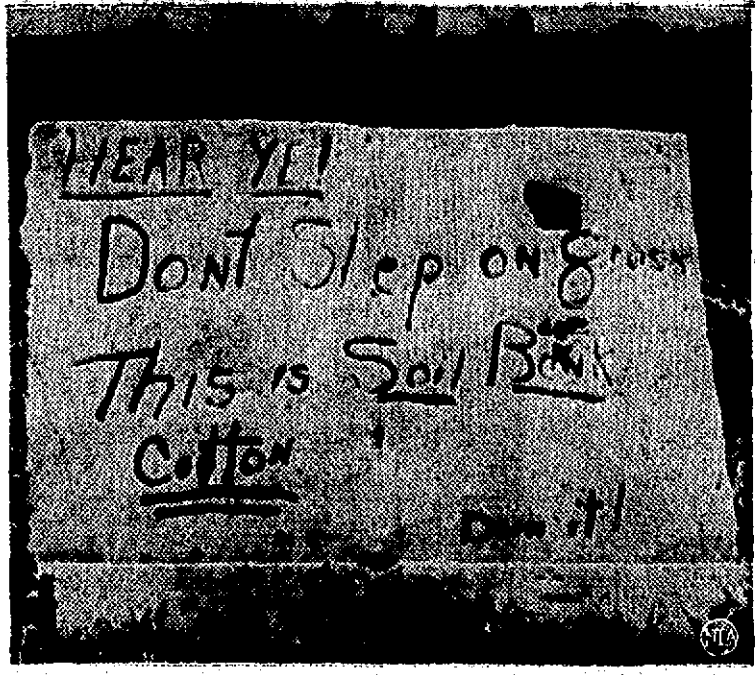

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court studies today the knotty legal question of whether GI William S. Girard should be tried by a Japanese civil court on a manslaughter charge.

Eight of the court's nine justices planned to be on hand for a closed conference on a Justice department plea for a quick reversal of a decision that Girard may be tried only by a U.S. military court. The ninth justice, William O. Douglas, left Washington before the lower court decision was handed down last Tuesday.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy ruled that Girard, a specialist third class from Ottawa, Ill., must not be tried by a Japanese court in the firing range death of a Japanese woman. McGarraghy held that Girard was on duty at the time of the shooting and that the soldier's constitutional rights would be violated if he were handed over to Japan for trial.

The justices probably will have to consider also a contention by lawyers for Girard that the soldier should be granted a writ of habeas corpus so he may be returned to the United States. They announced in New York yesterday they expected to file a "cross appeal" today. They said McGarraghy's decision "did not go far enough."

Tax Ban for Hells Canyon, Deal Still Hot

By JOHN H. KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sudden renunciation of tax benefits for two private Hells Canyon dam projects failed today to cool a Senate row over the issue.

In a surprise move last night, the Idaho Power Co. announced it is rejecting fast tax writeoff certificates granted for its Oxbow and Brownlee dams, two of its three private projects in the Snake River along the Idaho-Oregon boundary.

The Eisenhower administration and many opponents of public power development are opposing a federal Hells Canyon dam, which would be authorized by a bill now under debate in the Senate. The federal dam would flood out the Idaho Power Co. sites.

Sen. Morse (D-Ore.), a leading advocate of the federal dam, called the company's action "a desperate move to avoid the consequences of its vast improper actions."

Sen. Neuberger (D-Ore.) said the move "tends to repudiate the original action of Idaho Power Co. when it first sought the quick tax writeoff. It also refuses the wisdom of the Eisenhower administration in issuing the writeoff. I wonder if the company will do another about-face if this ruse succeeds in defeating the Hells Canyon bill."

The 28 Democrats cosponsoring the high federal dam, which would cost nearly 500 million dollars, say it would add more than a million kilowatts of generating capacity to the federal power system in the Columbia River with numerous subsidiary benefits.

Idaho Power and its supporters contend the three small dams would produce nearly as much power and as many other benefits as the federal projects. Idaho Power estimates the three dams — which have been licensed by the Federal Power Commission — can be built for 133 million dollars.

Opponents of the private development had been centering their fire on the rapid tax amortization certificates granted Idaho Power by the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Says Ike Not Disturbed at Budget Cut

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower was pictured today as "not too disturbed at what Congress has done in reducing his budget."

Rep. Jensen of Iowa made that report on Eisenhower's attitude after Jensen and 39 other House Republicans had breakfast with the President at the White House. The meeting, over scrambled eggs, bacon and fish cakes was the third in a series. Eisenhower is having all Republican members of Congress in at breakfast guests in an effort to win enactment of his legislative program.

The meeting with this latest group came on the heels of a GOP rally last night at which Eisenhower was the speaker. At the party session Eisenhower steered away from specific legislative problems but urged his audience to "carry on the good fight for America."

In last night's speech Eisenhower defined Republicanism as "never-failing concern" for every American, "no matter what his religion or the color of his skin."

Eisenhower has had some rough going in Congress in trying to win approval of the administration's $71,800,000,000 budget. The House and Senate already have voted some deep cuts, and the President on more than one occasion has spoken out in opposition to such reductions.

So the remark by Jensen that Eisenhower's "look too disturbed" or at least doesn't seem to be about the cuts came as something of a surprise.

Jensen, a member of the Appropriations Committee, told newsmen that "he recognizes that it is the duty of members of Congress to exercise their own good judgment."

Jensen went on to say that he regards Eisenhower as "a great guy" who is "very considerate" regarding the views of others.

"I haven't been able to see eye-to-eye with him on some of the things he has recommended, but he always is willing to give members of Congress the privilege of voting their convictions and still stay in the President's good graces," Jensen said.

House Republican Leader Marston P. Graves, graduate of the Arkansas School of Medicine in 1950, has been named staff physician in charge of the State Hospital infirmary here.

Dr. Graves has been working at the M.D. Anderson Tumor and Research Institute in Houston, Tex.

Committee to Continue TV at Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Continued telecasting of hearings contrary to a ruling by House Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) raised the question today of whether the House Committee on Un-American Activities was in contempt of the House.

Change in House rules, which Rayburn twice has interpreted as not permitting the broadcasting or telecasting of House committee hearings in Washington or elsewhere.

An Un-American Activities subcommittee headed by Chairman Walter (D-Pa.) has been conducting hearings in San Francisco this week had they have been televised. At news conferences Wednesday and again yesterday, Rayburn said this was a violation of House rules.

But the committee continued the televised hearings, Walter asserted. He had received no official orders to stop the telecasts. Walter also said he had nothing to do with the television. Permission to televise, he said, was granted by "whoever runs the building."

Rayburn's position was that no official orders were needed because he said the rule against telecasting was clearly spelled out in 1952 and again in 1955 in the records of the House.

Asked what he would do if the committee continued to ignore his ruling, Rayburn wouldn't comment other than to say: "There will not be any more House committee hearings or subcommittee hearings in Washington or anywhere else, televised or broadcast by radio."

He obviously was provoked. Rayburn's original ruling was an interpretation of the House rules which he said he would ignore his ruling. UN Voids Ban on New Arms in N. Korea

By DON BALDWIN

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — The U. N. Command today voided the Korean armistice ban on new weapons to match the Communist buildup in North Korea.

Murray Snyder, U.S. assistant secretary of defense, said in Washington that the new arms would include jet aircraft which can carry atomic arms, but "at this time no atomic weapons are being given to ground forces." He refused to say whether atomic armament would be stored at Korean bases for use against an attack.

The U. N. side declared it would continue to observe "fully" the cease-fire provision and all other points in the 1953 armistice agreement.

The Communist command promptly charged the U. N. with "attempting to make South Korea an atomic base and prepare for a new war."

North Korean Maj. Gen. Chung Keok Rook declared impassively: "We are vehemently opposed to equipping U. N. forces with new types of weapons, wrecking the armistice agreement and perpetuating the U. N. occupation of South Korea."

U. S. Marine Corps Maj. Gen. Homer L. Litzenberg, senior member of the U. N. Command, notified the North Korean and Chinese Communists of the U. N. decision at a meeting in the truce hut in the demilitarized zone. Litzenberg said "I expected."

"I did not interpret it as a Red threat to resume the fighting that ended with the July 27, 1953, truce," he said.

Burden on Baker's Says McClellan

By WILTON KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.) said today "the burden is on the Baker's Union now to say whether its president, James G. Cross, abused his office and misused funds."

The Senate Rankers Committee, headed by McClellan, yesterday completed hearings into alleged misconduct by Cross.

A Bakers Union hearing board, meanwhile, notified Cross' chief accuser, suspended Union Secretary-Treasurer Curtis R. Sims, it would meet today to consider the charge that he has brought the union into disrepute with his public denunciations of Cross' conduct.

Sims, suspended May 18, said he was surprised if the hearing board, which he contends is run by Cross, fails to make the suspension permanent.

The Senate committee wound up its public hearings on the Bakers Union with Cross denying yesterday that he approved "substandard" wage contracts between his union and a baking company official whose father loaned him $87,600.

Youth Hit by Car, Not Seriously Hurt

The four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Putnam was hit by an auto yesterday on the 700 block on South Pine Street. Fortunately the youth only suffered minor cuts and bruises.

City Police said the youth ran in front of the auto driven by a Negro man who was traveling very slowly. The driver stopped and gave assistance. No charge was filed.

Petitions for candidates for the Board of City Directors must be filed in the office of the City Clerk prior to midnight, July 5 in order for candidates name to be placed on the August 14 ballot.

A large group of citizens met last night to discuss the type of men needed to best serve on the first Board of City Directors.

Enthusiasm, family and cooperation was evidenced at this meeting and the conclusion reached that if a group of men which represented all elements of the community — retail businesses, industry and labor — could be picked in the nature of a draft rather than allowing the election to develop into a popularity contest, the services of more capable men could be secured.

A good cross section of the community was represented at the hurriedly called meeting last night and it now seems that a course of action has been agreed to and efforts will be made by the group to get the best possible men to serve the city in the new program.

Actually the eyes of the State are on this group of men.

Power Co. Had No Trouble Previously

By DALE NELSON

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho Power Co., in all its 40 years of existence, never heard a protest against the 11 major hydro-electric dams it built — not until Hells Canyon.

But since it applied to build three dams, Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon, in that stretch of the Snake River, bordering Idaho and Oregon, its soft-spoken, 57-year-old president, Thomas E. Rinehart, feels like a Boise-to-Washington commuter.

"It seems I've spent most of my time this past six years, in Washington," he said in an interview. He said he hadn't "the remotest idea" how many times he testified before various government agencies.

The Senate is debating a bill to authorize construction of a federal dam in Hells Canyon, the deepest canyon in the continent. The federal dam would flood out Brownlee, Oxbow and Hells Canyon dams. Brownlee Dam is half finished.

Idaho Power got tax amortization certificates entitling it to write off in five years, as depreciation for income tax purposes, a portion of the cost of Brownlee and Oxbow. Public power advocates called this an interest-free loan to Idaho Power.

Last night Rinehart wired the Office of Defense Mobilization director, Gordon Gray, who granted the certificates, that his company was releasing the certificates and would go ahead without them so as to "eliminate further belaboring of real issues" in the Hells Canyon debate.

In an interview before he acted to return the certificates, Rinehart said: "We are in an extremely acute power situation in our area, and it will be catastrophic by next summer if anything happens to our plans for Brownlee."

"In all the Pacific Northwest, the area served by Idaho Power Co. is the only one that has never had a power shortage... Left to our own devices we have maintained by hook or crook to maintain that proud boast."

He said the pair took their "boonings and car keys and drove away."

Dickerson said the two were to believe armed although "they would have found all kinds of weapons if they had just broken open one more door."

The break-out was discovered about 2:30 a.m.

Tornado Death Toll in North Dakota Is 10

FARGO, N. D. (AP) — A tornado, striking from a cloud lowering more than 10 miles high, smashed through 100 blocks of a Fargo residential area last night, killing 10 persons — six of them children in one family.

At least 35 persons were injured, some critically.

The massive, black funnel lashed a swath of devastation 20 blocks long and five wide.

Mayor Hirschel Lashkowitz estimates damage at at least 15 million dollars.

He said 500 homes, a high school and four churches were destroyed and that many other buildings and vehicles were damaged.

The mayor said he was asking federal aid to provide housing for 2,000 persons made homeless by the storm.

The dead included six children of the Gerald Munson family. They ranged in age from a year to 10. The mother was hospitalized with shock.

One of the Munson children, Lois Ann, 2, died of injuries early this morning. The body of a young girl, unidentified, was found later by searchers probing ruins of a home.

The other dead were three adults — two men and a woman. At least three persons, two of them children, were listed as missing.

One of the adult dead was identified as Don Tigen, 26. Tigen's two adopted children, about 8 and 9 years old, were reported missing.

Confusion arose over identification of two others. The coroner listed one victim as Mrs. Max Kunkelitz, about 56, and the body of a man, tentatively, as that of her husband, also about 56.

However, relatives of Max Kunkelitz in Minneapolis, maintained they talked with him by telephone last night and that he reported all members of the family safe. The coroner said identification was made by a relative. Some bodies were mutilated.

National Guard troops ordered into Fargo by Gov. John Davis, police and volunteers searched the devastated area at daylight for other possible victims. More than 200 homes were leveled or heavily damaged by the deadly blow. Many others bore scars of the huge twister.

Texans Break Out of Jail at Prescott

PRESCOTT (AP) — Two Texas brothers being held here for investigation broke out of city jail early today after prying open their cell door and breaking into the main police office.

Officer Buck Dickerson identified the fugitives as Bobby Ray Brooks, 5, and Loyd A. Brooks, 35, both of Abilene, Tex.

The Brooks brothers, who had been arrested Saturday night, used a coil spring, a broom handle and an iron bar to open locked doors, Dickerson said.

He said the pair took their "boonings and car keys and drove away."

Dickerson said the two were to believe armed although "they would have found all kinds of weapons if they had just broken open one more door."

The break-out was discovered about 2:30 a.m.

Hard to Find Man to Play Durante

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — Who could play Jimmy Durante in the film biography of the famous schnoz? That's the problem Jimmy is pondering now that several studios are hot to buy his life story. Several names have been suggested for it, especially Danny Thomas and Frank Sinatra.

But those two present a problem. Both are well-known personalities in their own right. Gene Kelly has been suggested to play manager-partner Lou Clayton to Thomas's Durante.

"But that would reverse the situation and make Durante the big guy and Clayton the little guy," Jimmy commented. He offered another candidate to play himself — Dean Martin.

The question arises — Who could play Durante but Durante himself?

"Yeah, that's been suggested too," he said. "But how'mya going to do it? The real story is about how Durante meets his partners, falls in love and gets married and starts up in the business. That story takes place when the guy is 19."

The whole question of impersonating him is a problem, he concluded.

"You gotta catch the personality," he said, "but you get in trouble if it's just an impersonation. That was the trouble with the Cantor picture; they were too busy catching Eddie's mannerisms."

The great thing about the Johnson picture was that the guy (Larry Parks) didn't try to act like Durante all the time. He had some of his gestures, but most of the illusion was carried by that great Johnson voice.

Durante discussed those and other matters as he sat in the sweltering sun before his Beverly Hills pool, clad in trunks and a hankie over his sparse locks.

What about the so-called decline of the comics in TV? "This is just a passing phase," he commented. "Listen — there will always be room for comedy. People want to laugh; they need to laugh. This would be a pretty sorry world if we didn't have laughter."

Jimmy said he would return to a regular TV show — but only

SUBSTITUTE DOCTOR

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

THE STORY: Dr. Garde Shelton has just learned that Valley Stanfield had an important part in bringing about a fight between Dr. Kurt Lillard and Ben Laurent the night before Ben was killed. Kurt was convicted of Ben's murder, but many people believe he was innocent.

XVII
Nan bent over double at the waist to read what was printed on the bag. Still in this position she placed around at Garde. "You know, don't you, that your only reward for all this hard labor will be to watch Valley's smugness at her horticultural triumph."

"Oh yes," Garde agreed. "She will be unbearable."

"Oh," he said slowly. "I have a feeling against all loss and destruction."

She went over to sit on the steps behind him. The potted plant she was spreading out around her knees like a rug. "That seems a proper sort of feeling," she decided. "For a medical student."

"I don't want to go back again to his task and after a bit said casually — so casually, that even to Nan, it seemed that he spoke the thought aloud. "I feel you know," he said, pausing between every other word to jab his short straw into the dirt. "Very much the same about young Lillard. There's been a terrific waste there. I mean that man didn't kill the Laurent boy."

"He didn't," said Nan's clear voice behind him.

Garde glanced at her over his bare shoulder which glistened a little in the dusk.

"There's something odd about the whole affair," Garde told her. "Looking at the story as a new comer here, in town — I can't put my finger on it. You know, a soft spot in the procession of things. I find myself liking the subject, incredible as it seems, the subject comes up for discussion."

"I too can't understand why things have gone — as they have. I often wish Ben were around so that."

"Well yes," said Garde dryly. "Nan would solve a great many things."

Garde meant his interest in paralytic things. It was a hobby to him. He read widely on the subject and talked a lot about it. He was always explaining things by the way. He had had a twist when he was 16. Why I always considered the flavors of ice cream and then always chose chocolate.

Garde slipped his arm into his shirt and went over to sit on the steps behind Nan.

Nan talked on with absorption, without noticing anything. Once he had said something like that, he would never say it again. He would say it only once.

"I don't want to go back again to his task and after a bit said casually — so casually, that even to Nan, it seemed that he spoke the thought aloud. "I feel you know," he said, pausing between every other word to jab his short straw into the dirt. "Very much the same about young Lillard. There's been a terrific waste there. "He didn't," said Nan's clear voice behind him.

Rescue Turns Into Tale of Worry, Woes

By EDWARD NICKERSON

MANORVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Five weeks ago the Benny Hooper story was one of unity and heroism — neighbors joining in tireless labor to free a small child from an earthen prison. Today it was a tale of division, dissection and worry.

The parents of 7-year-old Benny told newspapermen yesterday they were "stunned" to receive a bill for $1,500 from Dr. Joseph Kris, the physician who attended their son while he was trapped in a well for nearly 24 hours May 16 and 17.

The man who supervised rescue operations, Mike Slitz, said there is bitterness over the heroic role assigned to Sam Woodson, a Negro employee of his construction firm who brought the boy out of the well. Slitz said other men actually did more but were overlooked.

"Rumors have circulated in this rural community on eastern Long Island that the Hoopers have profited from the sensational rescue of their son, and that all the publicity has made them snooty."

The Hoopers say the rumors are untrue, they aren't snooty, they haven't received much money, and mainly they're just worried because the near-tragedy caused them financial trouble.

"We haven't got the money, that's what's worrying us," said the father, Benjamin K. Hooper, in commenting on the doctor's bill. He takes home $92 a week as a highway store foreman. His wife makes an after-tax $13 a week as a telephone operator, but of Benny and rest up after her has taken a month off to take care

The Hoopers said they received thousands of letters from well-wishers, but a cash total of less than $400 in the letters.

Benny received $1,000 each for two television appearances. The Hoopers gave one check to the Manorville Fire Department, which played a big part in the rescue, and put the other in a trust fund for Benny's education.

"We're going over to see Dr. Kris. He must have been misled somewhere along the line that we received a lot of money," Hooper said.

He emphasized that he was grateful for the doctor's efforts, but said he can just about make ends meet now.

Dr. Kris, an anesthesiologist, maintained constant and apparently tireless watch over the 24-foot hole in which Benny was trapped, and supervised the successful efforts to keep the child supplied with oxygen. He attended Benny

 Of course, there are minor drawbacks. At first you feel like you have a mouthful of marbles and you develop a lisp. The lisp then gives way to an unexpected whistle.

You try to cure this by saying over and over such sentences as: "Whistle-stop! Susie swam slowly through the Mississippi surf singing a soft song all by her silly simple self."

The other day I was walking along the street during lunch hour muttering the sentence and emitting low whistles. Well, sir, four taxis and three girls stopped to ask if I had summoned them.

DOROTHY DIX

Pair Should Grow Up and Act Like Parents

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 19. I married Ernie when I was six months pregnant. I think it's his child — he believes that, too, but actually I can't be positive. After our marriage, Ernie asked if there had ever been anyone else I told him there had and he left me. He tried to get an annulment but it was ruled out.

He's never been very nice to me, couldn't hold a steady job and was very dependent on his mother. We lived together only six weeks altogether. I've done everything I could think of to hold him, babying him, buying him gifts, being nice to his friends. Since our separation he's gone out with other women and has given me practically no support. Now he wants a divorce. Should I hang on or give up?

Dear Ethel: You and Ernie must face the fact that you're adults. You are now parents, with a responsibility. The sooner you appraise yourselves as such, the better.

To you, Ethel, I have a special word. Stop catering to Ernie. You'll never make a man of him by constant babying.

Your most immediate need is for family counseling. It will take many conferences to set you up as a family, but it will be the most worthwhile project of your lives. Get in touch with the Family Service Association in your city. They can help do the salvaging job.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I imagined myself in love with a man who, it turned out, was interested only in using me to hurt someone else. Even after he told me pointblank that he had been leading me on, I still love him.

How can I restore my faith in others and, most important, in myself?

Dear Irene: Your experience, devastating though it was, is not unusual. Those things happen, they cannot be undone and, while you may dream of retaliation, your chances of revenge are very slim. Time, with its natural process of oblivion, will take care of you.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have just discovered that "in-laws" is a bad word. At a social gathering I introduced my son's wife as my daughter-in-law. I was told it was improper, though my daughter-in-law makes it quite plain that she considers us "in-laws."

SARAH C.
 Dear Sarah: There is absolutely nothing wrong or improper about the term "in-laws." It designates a certain relationship. The people who make the relationship are frequently at fault; the word's okay.

Brothers Arrested for Liquor Holdup

LITTLE ROCK, (UP) — Police yesterday arrested two Newport, Ark., brothers in connection with a June 15 liquor store holdup here and an auto theft at North Little Rock.

Gerald F. Drake, 24, was arrested in North Little Rock with some of the liquor taken from the Casey, neill liquor store. Later in the day detectives arrested William Drake, 27, at Newport with a stolen car in his possession.

Both men have prison records, police said.

at nearby Bayview Hospital after the rescue.
 He said his colleagues had told him he would be foolish not to submit a bill.

"The time I put in was eight full days and close to 100 hours," he said. "My time is worth $30 an hour. I think the bill is a fair amount to charge."

He called the bill "about one half of the amount to which I am entitled."

"I don't practice medicine for money," the gray-haired specialist said. "I practice because I love medicine. . . If they have the money they should pay their honest bill."

"A man from Brooklyn telephoned me and offered to send a check and settle the bill. I said no. It's not a question of money. It's a question of principle."
 The Hoopers felt the bill was too high, he said, "they should have gone to the grievance board of the county medical society. What they did instead was go to the newspapers."

Kris said he did not volunteer his services, but was called in by police.

 Slitz said he felt the doctor's bill was justified. "Just because I don't want to get paid doesn't mean the doctor shouldn't," he said. He also said he didn't think the Hoopers were "very appreciative."

The construction company head said Woodson arrived on the scene late in the rescue operation and disobeyed orders by entering the shaft to get the boy.

He said other volunteers more familiar with the situation had been selected to go in. Woodson could have imperiled the whole operation, he charged.

No immediate comment from Woodson was available.

In addition to the medical bill, the Hoopers say they have other financial woes. Mrs. Hooper said they included: Their newly sowed lawn and garden were wrecked by the rains and equipment on the rescue scene; their insurance rates have been raised because so many sightseers came around; and they haven't yet recovered financially from the loss of wages in the aftermath of the or-

Couple Quits Hiding, Speed Cop Gets Them

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — The pretty blonde daughter of a Swedish air attaché and a Senate page boy—her parents feared they were rushing into romance too fast—emerged from 18 days of hiding today only to run afoul of a highway speed patrol.

State police stopped Christina Wennerstrom, 16, and Hew Williams, 18, as they sped along U.S. 15 on their way back to Washington from Canada.

Police Sgt. Leroy Foulkrod quoted the girl as saying she and young Williams had been married in Charleston, W. Va., after leaving their homes June 2 and that they had spent most of the last two weeks at Wisnigan, Ontario, near Toronto.

However, her mother—who put through a hasty telephone call to the police barracks at nearby Montoursville, Pa., when informed the couple had been found—said Christina denied she was married.

Christina and the page boy she met at a school dance had been the object of an intense police search since they disappeared shortly before her father, Col. Stig Wepnerstrom, was due to return to his homeland for reassignment.

The father since has gone back to Sweden but Mrs. Wennerstrom remained in Washington while the search for her daughter continued. After talking to Christina this morning by telephone, Mrs. Wennerstrom left Washington by car to drive to Montoursville and pick up the girl. She indicated she would pay the $15 speeding fine.

Sgt. Foulkrod said the girl was at the wheel of the 1931 convertible owned by Williams' mother when two troopers stopped the couple for driving 65 miles an hour in a 50-mile zone.

Christina told reporters who flocked to the police barracks, "I'm glad we're caught and I'm not sorry about any of it."

The couple appeared happy and unperturbed by the furor their appearance caused. They ate some breakfast under the watchful eye of police and sat holding hands in a barracks room.

Sgt. Foulkrod put through telephone calls to the U. S. State department and the Federal Bureau of Investigation for instructions.

U. S. Proposes Army Cuts by Three Nations

LONDON, (UP) — The United States proposed today that the U. S. and Soviet armed forces be cut to 2,500,000 men each. It said the reductions should be made "without any political pre-conditions" as part of a first-step disarmament plan.

U.S. Delegate Harold E. Stassen made the proposal at today's session of the five-power London disarmament conference, sources disclosed.

The cut, to be carried out within one year, of the signing of a disarmament treaty, would be part of an overall agreement including the future of nuclear tests.

Stassen also told the conference the United States was prepared to consider further substantial armed force reductions in order to meet Russian half-way.

He indicated the United States would consider the cutting of forces to a figure substantially lower than the proposed 2,500,000 level depending on the solution of political problems.

Conference sources said that while the U. S. offers a 2,500,000 man reduction was made without any prior political conditions, further cuts below this level would depend upon the progressive settlement of outstanding east-west political issues.

Stassen pointed out that these envisioned further reductions would also form part of a first-step disarmament agreement.

The long-awaited American proposal touched off a general discussion in which Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd and Canadian David Johnson, took part.

Wolf Pack Patrols End Auto Deaths

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Wolf pack" police patrols have almost wiped out auto deaths on a perfectly engineered road that once was called "El Camino de la Muerte" — the Highway of Death.

The 65-mile stretch from Tucson to the Mexican border claimed 30 lives in the 12 months before last June 21. Since the Arizona highway patrol began its "emphasis patrol" a year ago today, only three persons have been killed.

Accidents with injuries have been cut in half.

This experiment in traffic safety, which uses roadblocks and extra patrolmen, is the brainchild of Lt. B. D. Velasco, who

Cards Finally Take Over Lead in National

By ED WILKS
Of The Associated Press

The St. Louis Cardinals finally have the National League lead in hand.

With a .750 winning percentage over the last month, they've risen all the way from sixth place while the rest of the contenders were playing musical chairs with first-division berths.

They were 8½ games off the pace when they started to move. Since then they've won 21 of 28 games.

Murry Dickson, a 40-year-old right-hander, held Pittsburgh in check yesterday on seven hits before firing and giving way to relief help in the eighth while the Cards built a 7-4 victory.

New York's Giants opened the door for the Cardinals, ending Milwaukee's seven-day stay in first place with a 12-inning, 4-3 victory for the Braves' fourth defeat in the last five games.

Cincinnati regained third place, 1½ games back, by beating Brooklyn 6-1. Philadelphia defeated the Chicago Cubs 7-2.

In the American League, New York's second-place Yankees look to be on the threshold of first place, running their winning streak to seven games with a 3-1 victory over Detroit while Baltimore trimmed Chicago's first place lead to 1½ games with a 4-1 decision. The W Sox open a four-game series in New York tonight.

Boston defeated Cleveland 9-7 and Washington beat Kansas City 9-4.

The Cardinals, swinging for nine hits and getting two RBIs from Al Dark, scored three in the third against ex-mate Luis Arroyo on singles by Dark and Ken Boyer and a double play. They scored the two that clinched it in the fifth without a hit — on a walk and two errors. Stan Musial doubled to extend his hitting streak to 20 games.

Fondy's Eye Is Clearing Up

ST. LOUIS (AP)—De Fondy's eye hemorrhage is "clearing up" and the Pittsburgh Pirates' first baseman may be discharged from Jewish Hospital today.

Dr. I. C. Middleman, St. Louis Cardinal club physician, said last night a specialist will dilate the pupil of Fondy's eye and if the retina is clear he will be released.

Fondy was hit by a thrown ball in practice before a doubleheader Wednesday. The .333-hitting Plv rate also had a broken nose and a fracture of the bone just below the eye socket.

Hank Aaron has a wide margin on Gino Cimoli and Carl Furillo of Brooklyn for right field and Eddie Mathews of the Braves also holds the edge over Don Hoak of Cincinnati for third base.

The Redleg leaders are Frank Robinson in leftfield, Ed Bailey as catcher and Roy McMillan at shortstop. However, both Temple and Hoak are close enough to be threats to Schoendienst and Mathews.

In the voting announced by the office of Commissioner Ford Fick, Detroit has three leaders in the American League in shortstop Harvey Kuenn, third baseman Reno Bertoia and right fielder Al Kaline. Center fielder Mickey Vernon with 37,715 votes and catcher Yogi Berra are the Yankee leaders. Others who are out front are Williams in left field, Nellie Fox of Chicago at second base and Vic Wertz of Cleveland at first.

Redlegs and Braves Lead Balloting

NEW YORK (UP)—The trade that brought Red Schoendienst to Milwaukee has given the Braves a tie with the Cincinnati Redlegs in the number of players leading for the National League All-Star team.

Three Braves, three Redlegs, Stan Musial of St. Louis and Willie Mays of New York are the current pacesetters.

Musial, of course, tops all the National League voting with 32,700 for the first base job on the team that will play the American League All-Stars at St. Louis, Tuesday, July 9.

Ted Williams of Boston is the leading vote catcher in the American, in fact, in both majors, with 39,481.

TRACKS

Here they are...our tracks. And there he is following in them. Daddy, every step you take leaves its mark. And eager young minds see them so clearly, and follow them so well. Why not take some steps toward church! Your son and your daughter will follow. His first impulse is to do just what you do...to walk in daddy's tracks. Notice how many farmers' boys farm, how many bankers' boys go into banking and how many preachers' sons enter the ministry. They are following you, daddy, even to the tone of your voice. If you want them to help build a good society, to know God...then take them to church and sit with them in the place of worship.

YOU IN THE CHURCH THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are molding religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. "You in the Church and the Church in you" form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCHGOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
The Bible's supreme importance stems from the good news of the Gospel that it brings to mankind. I think it was the poet Tennyson who said, concerning the Gospel: "It is good news, it is true news, and it is new news." It might be new news for many in the vast world of mankind who, despite all the gain in publicity and communication, have never really heard it.

As I wrote these words, the highly publicized evangelistic campaign of Billy Graham in New York was beginning. The response of practicing Protestants, already evangelized, will undoubtedly be impressive. But, beyond the large proportion of Roman Catholics and Jews, New York's conglomerate population is, I believe largely irreligious, or religiously illiterate.

The success or failure of Mr. Graham's mission will depend very much upon how much he reaches the irreligious and the religiously illiterate. It might be said, in fact, that here is the test of all the religious forces of today.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON
By William E. Gilroy, D. D.
The Bible's supreme importance stems from the good news of the Gospel that it brings to mankind. I think it was the poet Tennyson who said, concerning the Gospel: "It is good news, it is true news, and it is new news." It might be new news for many in the vast world of mankind who, despite all the gain in publicity and communication, have never really heard it.

As I wrote these words, the highly publicized evangelistic campaign of Billy Graham in New York was beginning. The response of practicing Protestants, already evangelized, will undoubtedly be impressive. But, beyond the large proportion of Roman Catholics and Jews, New York's conglomerate population is, I believe largely irreligious, or religiously illiterate.

The success or failure of Mr. Graham's mission will depend very much upon how much he reaches the irreligious and the religiously illiterate. It might be said, in fact, that here is the test of all the religious forces of today.

How effectively are the religious forces of today reaching the irreligious and the religiously illiterate? It might be said, in fact, that here is the test of all the religious forces of today.

Religion at least is in the news, perhaps as never before, but what will the news be, measured in results? My special interest is in a somewhat broader relationship between religion and news, the Bible and the newspaper.

I am constantly impressed with the way in which the Bible is continuously relayed in the experiences of today, in the lives of individuals, and in the experiences of peoples and nations.

Away back in the days when the famous preacher T. Dewitt Talmadge was editing The Christian Herald, that paper was a weekly visitor in my father's home. My father was a merchant in a country town, and an unofficial and unremunerated agent for that paper and one or two other religious papers.

I remember The Christian Herald particularly for a page in which current events were linked up with appropriate Bible references or parallels, and my constant interest in it may have been a premonition of what has been a life long association with the Bible and journalism.

If I were a young man, beginning a career and seeking a field for a newspaper column, I think it would be in reviving and continuing that old-time idea of associating the Bible with the news.

The incidents, examples, warnings, admonitions, exhortations and commendations of the Bible have their constant illustrations and parallels in early life, but that is not all. In a larger sense, world situations and world affairs have their backgrounds in Bible history.

What is happening in the Middle East today is like what happened in Old Testament times as the tribes of Israel fought for their protection and welfare against surrounding tribes.

And the little land of Palestine later was in the midst of great empires, warring for supremacy. The important thing is that the Bible, if men and nations would listen, has the most important comment and counsel more than a guide to personal salvation; it offers the supreme way of life for peoples and nations. It is not only God's book for man, but God's book for mankind.
